TABLE OF CONTENTS

Maximizing student success in a flipped classroom utilizing non-linear redesign of content .......................................................................................................................... 1
Meridith Bergeron, University of Florida and Franciscan Missionaries of Our Lady University, United States; Marty Aime, Louisiana State University and Franciscan Missionaries of Our Lady University, United States

Open Online Module for Computational Thinking in Mathematics Education ................. 5
George Gadanidis & Rosa Cendros Araujo, Western University, Canada

ESP and Digital Storytelling for Science Communication .............................................. 11
Cheng Hsu, National Chin-yi University of Technology, Taiwan; Chia-pei Wu, I-Shou University, Taiwan

Student Driven Virtual Development of E-Learning Resources Using Google Apps ............................................................................................................................... 14
David Ibsen, Collaborative Information Networks, Canada; Johanna Ibsen, Family and Community Twining Society, Canada; Gloria Zhao, University of Alberta, Canada; Carole Ibsen, The Three Bears International, Canada

Searching Discourse Segments for Formulaic Sequences in a Closed Caption TV Corpus for Language Learning ................................................................. 19
Hajime Mochizuki & Kohji Shibano, Tokyo University of Foreign Studies, Japan

Creating and Applying Transmedia Content: Augmented Reality (AR) for Information Linking and Learning ................................................................. 28
Pamela Ponners & Jackie Chetzron, University of North Texas, United States

Development of a Virtual Approach to Teaching Nutrition Focused Physical Examination ..................................................................................................................... 33
Jennifer Tomesko, Rebecca Brody & Riva Touger-Decker, Rutgers University, School of Health Professions, United States

ICT Accessibility MOOC: What The Data Reveals .......................................................... 38
Fatimah Wirth & Christopher Lee, Georgia Institute of Technology, United States

Rigor and Relevance of Contextualized Measures in Mathematics, Literacy and Inquiry Learning for Rural Public Schooling in Medellin ..................................................... 42
Clara Amador-Lankster, National University, United States; Marlen Monsalve, Centro de Ciencia y Tecnología de Antioquia, Colombia

Searching for effective peer assessment models for improving online learning in HE – Do-It-Yourself (DIY) case .................................................................................. 53
Irja Leppisaari, Janne Peltoniemi & Tiula Hohenthal, Centria University of Applied Sciences, Finland; Yeonwook Im, Hanyang Cyber University, Korea (South)
MOOCs and Self-Regulated Learning Preliminary Validation of a Scale .......................... 66
Charo Reparaz, University of Navarra, Spain; Guillermo Mendoza, Universidad Católica de El Salvador, El Salvador; Maite Aznárez-Sanado, University of Navarra, Spain

Augmented Affordances Support Learning: Comparing the Instructional Effects of the Augmented Reality Sandbox and Conventional Maps to Teach Topographic Map Skills ............................................................................................................................... 71
Rick Richardson & Dotty Sammons, Idaho State University, Department of Organizational Learning and Performance, College of Education, United States; Donna Delparte, Idaho State University, Geosciences Department, College of Science and Engineering, United States

Case Studies Using e-Textbooks Connected with a Learning Management System .................................................................................................................................. 82
Toshioki Soga, Chitose Institute of Science and Technology, Japan; Takahiro Nakahara, Sangensha LLC., Japan; Norihito Kawana, Sapporo International University, Japan; Izumi Fuse, Hokkaido University, Japan; Tohru Kaku & Rika Saito, Japan Health Care College, Japan; Yasuyuki Nakamura, Nagoya University, Japan

Customizing Section 508 HHS Checklists to Evaluate Accessibility of Interactive Features in Online Courses .......................................................................................................................... 88
Ngoc Vo, Lauren Hamel, Yinning Zhang, Angela Brodsky, Angela Reid, Lucas Carr, Wesley Steverson & Michael Harris, eCampus, University System of Georgia, United States

Self-assessment of online participation: Using a reflective approach to enhancing student experience .................................................................................................................................. 102
Jo Axe, Elizabeth Childs & Lois Fearon, Royal Roads University, Canada

Using student-generated questions and peer-responses as a formative e-assessment strategy: Students acting as more knowledgeable others ........................................................................... 108
Bernard Bahati, University of Rwanda & Stockholm University, Sweden; Uno Fors & Preben Hansen, Stockholm University/DSV Department, Sweden

Overseeing the Design and Delivery of Online Programs: Centralized and Decentralized Approaches .......................................................................................................................... 118
Meridith Bergeron, University of Florida and Franciscan Missionaries of Our Lady University, United States; Sarah Fornero, University of Florida and Alder University, United States

New Computers in Schools in Developing African Countries: A Conceptualization of the Neglected Considerations ......................................................................................................... 122
Benjamin Teye Kojo Boison, Margaret Warner School of Education and Human Development, University of Rochester, United States
Determining Pre-Service Teachers’ Opinions about Technology Integration Process in The Scope of Educational Technology Use Applications .......................................................... 132
Hatice Durak, Fatma Gizem Karaoğlan Yılmaz & Ramazan Yılmaz, Bartin University, Turkey

From Beginning to End: Holistic Faculty Development for eLearning and its Programmatic Impact .................................................................................................................. 140
Sara Frizelle, Andreas Brockhaus & Todd Conaway, University of Washington Bothell, United States

Creative learning technologies as a catalyst for rethinking education .................. 144
Lisa Gjedde, Aalborg University, Denmark

Lessons learned along the way: Design Insights for eLearning in Human Development, Counselling and Social Services .......................................................... 148
Tannis Goddard, MixtMode, Canada

Faculty Development and Student-Centered Online Learning: Issues, Perspectives and Lessons Learned from Integrating an Exemplary Course Program ..................... 153
Patrick Guilbaud & Kimarie Whetstone, Winthrop University, United States

Digital Narratives in the Graduate Classroom: Articulating Educational Philosophies via VoiceThread ......................................................................................................... 160
Sandra Guzman Foster & Lucretia Fraga, University of the Incarnate Word, United States

Best Practices for Developing and Maintaining an Online OER Degree Pathway .................................................................................................................. 164
Marty Heilstedt, Pierce College at Joint Base Lewis-McChord, Lakewood, WA, United States; Sally Heilstedt, Lake Washington Institute of Technology, Kirkland, WA, United States; Quill West, Pierce College District, Lakewood, WA, United States

Developing Industry and International Partnerships to Enhance Student Learning and Faculty Development .......................................................................................... 170
Karen Ivy, Forbes School of Business & Technology - Ashford University, United States

Quantified Self in Engineering Education: How are Students Studying and is it Working? .................................................................................................................. 175
Brandon Karcher & Brittany Pierson, Purdue University, United States

Experience with introducing flipped classroom and an online assessment tool in teaching biochemistry and cell biology for bachelor students in pharmacy .......................................................................................... 181
Yury Kiselev & Anne Berit Walter, Oslo and Akershus University College of Applied Sciences, Norway
New Student Response System (uReply) Enhances Students' Skills of Medical History Taking ................................................................. 187
Paul Lam, Centre for Learning Enhancement and Research, The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong; Rita Sung & Jenny Fang Jiang, Kai Chong Tong Clinical Skills Learning Centre, The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong

What drives flow experience in constructing knowledge in social media? ................. 191
Shinyi Lin, National Taichung University of Education, Taiwan; Sheng-Yu Chan, Taichung Second Senior High School, Taiwan; Tsung-Wei Lin, National Changhua Senior High School, Taiwan; Yu Chen Ni, National Taichung First Senior High School, Taiwan

GoSync – An introduction of the concurrent learning/teaching model for online education ............................................................................................................................ 196
Feng Liu, Mercer University, United States

Building a Culture of Community in Online Education Settings: Challenges and Opportunities ....................................................................................................................................... 203
Tawnya Means, University of Nebraska, United States; Amanda Phalin & Jean Starobin, University of Florida, United States

The adoption of a mobile device as a teaching agent in Higher Education ............... 207
Ivana Maria Schnitman & Fabricio Forgerini, Federal University of Southern Bahia, Brazil

Lessons Learned from a Partnership with an Online Program Management (OPM) Provider .............................................................................................................................. 214
Scott Springer, Brigham Young University-Hawaii, United States

Mobile Learning: Implementing a 1 to 1 iPad Project in a Teacher Preparation Program .............................................................................................................................. 219
Elizabeth Truesdell & Rebecca Birch, Dominican University of California, United States

Experiences in Developing a Singular Multimedia Object with Adobe Captivate 9 to Present an Entire Multi-Modular Online Course ................................................................. 223
Robert Tucker & Annika Lewinson-Morgan, The University of the West Indies, Open Campus, Jamaica

Supporting the development of a quality culture for online and blended learning in Adult Education .............................................................................................................. 233
Hilde Van Laer & Koen DePryck, Vrije Universiteit Brussel, Belgium

Platform for Teaching Mobile Game Programming at College: Android vs iOS .............................................................................................................................. 244
Penn Wu, DeVry University, United States
Everyone’s story: Using hermeneutics to foster classroom interaction, group discussion, and collaboration in blended learning environments ........................................ 251
Teresa Avery, Karyn Cooper & Rebecca Hughes, University of Toronto, OISE, Canada

Designing an Interactive Online Case Exercise: Process and Tools, Design Challenges, and Lessons Learned ................................................................. 256
Marlene Biseda, Graziadio School of Business and Management, Pepperdine University, United States; Gloria Schramm, eLearning Productions, United States; Shelley Stewart, Graziadio School of Business and Management, Pepperdine University, United States

Instructional Design for Improving Scholarly Conversations among Online Graduate Students ........................................................................................................ 263
Qijie Cai, Minnesota State University, Mankato, United States

Factors that Influence Scaffolded Online Collaborative After-Class Tutoring .................................................................................................................. 269
Yu-Hsuan Chen, Department of Visual Communication Design, Taipei University of Marine Technology, Taiwan; Chang-Hwa Wang, Department of Graphic Arts and Communications, National Taiwan Normal University, Taiwan

Becoming an Online Teacher: An Analysis of Prospective Online Instructors’ Reflections ........................................................................................................ 278
Yu-Hui Ching, Yu-Chang Hsu & Sally Baldwin, Boise State University, United States

The impact of scaffolding on characteristics of mental models during information-seeking activity .................................................................................................... 292
Salome Cojean & Eric Jamet, University of Rennes 2, France

Virtual Simulation - A Method of Clinical Instruction for Undergraduate Nursing Courses ........................................................................................................ 297
Deborah Cooke, Western Governor’s University, United States

Smart Learning requires Smart Thinking: The Evolution of Sustainable Learning Environments ............................................................................................... 303
Steven Coombs, Hamdan Bin Mohammed Smart University, United Arab Emirates; Madhumita Bhattacharya, New Paradigm Solutions Limited, New Zealand

Should Today’s Teachers Graduate Prepared to Teach Online? ............................................................ 314
Rebecca Cooper, Georgia Gwinnett College, United States

Hybrid Delivery Classroom Model: Revised and re-aligned for enhanced student learning success .................................................................................................. 320
Elizabeth Crawford & David Rausch, University of Tennessee at Chattanooga, United States
Make it real: Designing authentic online GIS learning for a K12 audience ........................................ 326
Aaron Doering & Jeni Henrickson, University of Minnesota, United States

Creating a Sense of Community among Learners in an Online Course ................................. 338
Kelly Elander, Harding University, United States

Management Education in the Intelligent Tutor Era ................................................................. 354
Owen P. Hall Jr. & Charla Brown, Pepperdine University, United States

Visualizing Dominant Behaviours in Problem-Based Learning Environments: A Case Study Analysis of the HOWARD Platform ................................................................. 359
Lingyun Huang, Stephen Bodnar, Juan Zheng, Maedeh Kazemitabar & Susanne Lajoie, Faculty of Education, McGill University, Canada; Yuxin Chen, Gurpreet Birk & Cindy Hmelo-Silver, School of Education, Indiana University Bloomington, United States; Juan Pablo Sarmiento & Ricki Goldman, Department of Administration Leadership and Technology, New York University, United States; Jeffrey Wiseman, Center for Medical Education, McGill University, Canada; Lapki Chan, School of Biomedical Sciences, The University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong

Engagement with Robots: Building a Social, Self-paced, Online Robotics Course .......................................................... 365
Richard Huntrods & Jon Dron, Athabasca University, Canada

Harnessing Anchored Instruction In Blended Language Courses With VoiceThread .......................................................... 373
Jeff Kissinger, Graduation Alliance, Rollins College, United States; Rui Cao, Schreiner University, United States; Kate Sierra, Texas Wesleyan University, United States; Jeremy Hilpot, Rollins College, Peru

The interface: an object that is hated and loved ........................................................................ 380
Ana Lilia Laureano-Cruces, Lourdes Sanchez-Guerrero, Perla Velasco-Santos & Martha Mora-Torres, Universidad Autónoma Metropolitana-Azcapotzalco, Mexico

Exploring principles of successful eGroup mentoring on the interface of higher education and working life .......................................................... 389
Irja Leppisaari, Centria University of Applied Sciences, Finland

Interactive oral assessments: Pedagogical and policy considerations ........................................ 403
Danielle Logan, Popi Sotiriadou, Amanda Daly & Ross Guest, Griffith University, Australia

Affective Agile Project Management: An Embodiment of Seamless Learning .......................................................... 410
Rainer Mueller, Department of Computer Sciences, University of Applied Science, Constance, Germany; Ralf Schimkat, Department of Computer Sciences, University of Applied Science, Constance, Germany, Germany
Best Practices in Online Course Design ................................................................. 416
Karen Nakaska & Cheryl VanDusen, Rocky View Schools Online, Canada

Designing Training with Whole Brain in Mind .................................................. 420
Ilknur Oded, California State University Monterey Bay, United States; Yaniv Oded, Indiana University, United States

Gaming Instructional Materials for Social Skills Education for University Students ........................................ 424
Yoshiko Okada, Shibaura Institute of Technology, Japan

Technology professional development delivered online: The TEL MOOC Instructional Approach ................................................................. 430
Nathaniel Ostashewski & Martha Cleveland-Innes, Athabasca University, Canada; Sanjaya Mishra, Commonwealth of Learning, Canada

Using BlackBoard Learn Analytics to Understand Redesign and Student Success within a Non-Majors Biology Online Learning Environment ........................................ 435
Mary Jo Parker, University of Houston-Downtown, United States

Facilitated and Self-Paced Design Strategies for Online Professional Learner Engagement ................................................................. 442
Kirsten Peterson & Joyce Malyn-Smith, EDC, United States

Proposal of a Model of Student’s Thinking Style Profiles ........................................ 449
Lourdes Sanchez-Guerrero, Ana Lilia Laureano-Cruces, Perla Velasco-Santos, Martha Mora-Torres & Javier Ramirez-Rodriguez, Universidad Autonoma Metropolitana-Azcapotzalco, Mexico

Distance Learning Instructional Design: Assessing Professional Competence with Miller’s Pyramid ................................................................. 459
Barbara Schultz-Jones, Daniella Smith, Michelle Farabough & RaeAnna Jeffers, University of North Texas, United States

Beyond Netiquette Guidelines: Best Practices for Proactively Fostering Professional Communication Behaviors in E-Learning ........................................ 467
Peggy Semingson, University of Texas at Arlington, United States; Dana Owens, The University of Texas at Arlington, United States

Scaling up E-learning: Best Practices for Teaching Online Classes with a Large Enrollment ................................................................. 472
Peggy Semingson, University of Texas at Arlington, United States; Dana Owens, The University of Texas at Arlington, United States
A Study on Student Perceptions of an Adaptive Learning System in College Algebra and Its Effect on Course Performance ................................................................. 477
Claire Stuve, The University of Toledo, United States

Keeping in Summer Shape (KiSS): Helping Students Bridge the Gap Between Sequential Gateway STEM courses ................................................................. 483
Carla van de Sande, Arizona State University, United States

Communicative Language Teaching in E-Learning: How Confident are the Instructors? ........................................................................................................... 489
Christie Vanorsdale, Duquesne University, United States

An Authentic Learning Program that Benefits Online Learning: Implementing a Voice-Over Internship ................................................................. 494
David Wolf & Sten Isachsen, Schenectady County Community College, United States

Integrating Computerized Graphic Organizers in EFL Reading Classes ....................... 499
Chia-Pei Wu, I-Shou University, Kaohsiung, Taiwan, Taiwan

A Study on the direction of 3D Modeling Education Considering Computational Thinking Factors at Elementary School in South Korea ........................................... 505
Soyul Yi, Ungyeol Jung & Youngjun Lee, Dept. of Computer education, Korea National University of Education, Korea (South)

Instructor Experiences in Designing and Delivering Interactive MOOCs in Higher Education ........................................................................................................... 509
Meina Zhu, Curtis J. Bonk & Annisa Sari, Indiana University, United States

Comparison of the Internet Literacy and Opportunities for Awareness Education between Parents and Youths ................................................................. 516
Nagayuki Saito & Madoka Aragaki, Business Breakthrough University, Japan

Tensions between Global Competition and Digital Equity: A Foucauldian Analysis on 2016 National Education Technology Plan (NETP) ........................................... 525
Xiaoyu Wan, University of Rochester, United States

The Implementation and Evaluation of a Quality Graduate Supervision miniMOOC ........................................................................................................... 531
Hawazen Alharbi & Michele Jacobsen, University of Calgary, Canada
Factors Influencing Response Rates in Online Student Evaluation Systems: A Systematic Review Approach ................................................................. 537
Samuel Asare & Ben Kei Daniel, University of Otago, New Zealand

All Work and No Results: The Limits of Synchronous Activity in the Asynchronous Learning Environment ........................................................................................................... 542
Laurie Bedford & Kimberlee Bethany Bonura, Walden University, United States

Online Collaborative Visual Representations: A Scoping Review ............................................. 547
Rosa Cendros Araujo, Western University, Canada

Online Language Teaching: Teacher Perceptions of Effective Communication Tools, Required Skills and Challenges of Online Teaching .............................................................. 557
Liesbeth De Paepe, VUB (Vrije Universiteit Brussel), Belgium; Chang Zhu & Koen Depryck, VUB, Belgium

The Wheel of Discussion: A New Approach to Cold-Calling ................................................ 565
Christopher Devers & Erin Devers, Indiana Wesleyan University, United States

Exploring Case Specificity in Medical Students’ Clinical Reasoning ...................................... 572
Tenzin Doleck, McGill University, Canada; Eric Poitras, University of Utah, United States; Susanne Lajoie, McGill University, Canada

Demonstration and Incremental Completion as Support for Learning from Animation ................... 578
Benjamin Fillisch & Rolf Ploetzner, University of Education, Institute for Media in Education Freiburg, Germany, Germany

Developing expertise in video games and in academics: A comparative investigation ................................................................. 585
Karla Hamlen, Cleveland State University, United States

Learner Perception of Personal Spaces of Information (PSIs)- A Mental Model Analysis ................................................................................................................................. 591
Sharon Hardof-Jaffe, Tel-Aviv University, School of Education, Israel; Ruthi Aladjem, Tel Aviv University, Israel

Physical Computing for STEAM Education: Maker-Educators' Experiences in an Online Graduate Course ................................................................. 602
Yu-Chang Hsu, Yu-Hui Ching & Sally Baldwin, Boise State University, United States

Courage to learn and utilize ICT in teaching - building understanding of teachers who lack courage .......................................................................................................................... 611
Veera Kenttälä & Marja Kankaanranta, University of Jyväskylä, Finland
Ongoing Research into Using Computer Mediation, Writing Process, and Peer Review in Japanese EFL Classes ................................................................. 621
Ronald Kibler, Komazawa University, Tomakomai Campus, Hokkaido, Japan; Hiroki Ishizuka, Hokkaido University of Education, Japan

An Investigation of the Relationship between Self-Efficacy and Technological Pedagogical Content Knowledge (TPACK) among Preservice Teachers ............... 627
Eunkyoung Lee, KICE, Korea (South); Seong-Won Kim & Youngjun Lee, Korea National University of Education, Korea (South)

The Influence of Predefined and Interactive Highlights on Attention Guidance During Learning from Animation – An Eye Tracking Comparison ........................................... 632
Fabian Link & Rolf Ploetzner, University of Education, Institute of Media in Education, Germany

How does an LMOOC work? ........................................................................................... 638
Terumi Miyazoe, Tokyo Denki University, Japan

Creating OER materials - Perspectives of Global Instructors .................................. 644
Nathaniel Ostashewski & Serena Henderson, Athabasca University, Canada

Assessing the impact of intelligent interventions by conversational agents: Implications for pedagogical agent design ................................................................. 649
Mike Procter, Bob Heller & Oscar Lin, Athabasca University, Canada

The Pedagogical Variation Model for online Learning and Teaching: Increasing Retention Rates and Decreasing Drop-out Rates .......................................................... 654
Maria SUSY Rogers, The University of South Wales, Pontypridd, UK, United Kingdom

Managing Your Scholarly Reputation Score ........................................................................ 662
Ryan Rominger, Erik Bean & Fiona Sussan, University of Phoenix, United States

From Research on Eye Tracking to E-learning Training for Speed Reading ................................................................. 666
Makoto Shishido, Tokyo Denki University, Japan

Technology Skills Acquisition in a Pre-service teacher Digital Storytelling Project ................................................................. 672
Nyarai Tunjera & Agnes Chigona, Cape Peninsula University of Technology, South Africa

Student perspectives on experiences in an online doctoral program ......................... 681
Radhika Viruru & Ambyr Rios, Texas A&M University, United States
Eliminating Virtual Walls through a MOOC + Virtual International Exchange (VIE) ................................................................. 688
Naomi Wahls, University of Colorado Denver, United States; Galina Siergiejczyk, CU Boulder, United States; Mukaddas Ogay, O’zbekiston Davlat Jahon Tillari Universiteti, Uzbekistan

Presenting Correlated Concepts by Augmented-Reality Instructional Animations .............................................................................. 693
Chang-Hwa Wang, Department of Graphic Arts and Communications, National Taiwan Normal University, Taiwan; Yu-Hsuan Chen, Department of Visual Communication Design, Taipei University of Marine Technology, Taiwan

Acculturation challenges in cross-cultural learning ................................................. 703
Youmei Liu & Guoquan Wang, University of Houston, United States

Gender difference in social media group participation ............................................. 709
Youmei Liu, University of Houston, United States

Indigenous land-based skills through the lens of augmented reality ...................... 715
Kirsten Mikkelsen & Ali M. AL-Asadi, Department of Arts & Education, Grande Prairie Regional College, Canada

Video production for E-Learning courses through Indigenous Studies Redesign Project ........................................................................... 719
Kirsten Mikkelsen, Ali M. AL-Asadi & Jennifer Tourangeau, Department of Arts & Education, Grande Prairie Regional College, Canada

Virtual Reality and Depth of Empathy .................................................................... 723
Ryan Myers, University of Texas at Austin, United States

Creating Sustainability Through Indigenous Food Security - An Online Educational Approach .............................................................................. 729
Linda Robinson, SCcyber ELearning Community, Canada

The Importance of Emotional Intelligence and Servant Leadership Working in Concert to Promote Social Responsibility ........................................... 735
Gina Shipley & Lesley Casarez, Angelo State University, United States

Designing ICT4D in Kenya ...................................................................................... 741
Elin Svensson, Karlstad University, Sweden; Lars Svensson, University West, Sweden

Applied Simulation Games in Business Education: A Review of an Essential Pedagogy ...................................................................................... 749
Putthachat Angnakoon & Sarunwit Promsaka N.S., Thammasat University, Thailand
Methods of Instructional Resource Efficacy Analysis ................................................. 757
Adam Blum, ACT, United States

Virtual Reality (VR) Applications in Online Counselor Education Programs .......................................................... 763
Barbara Cooper, Heather Zeng & McKay Davis, Capella University, United States

iMETHOD AND LEARNING ANALYTICS RESEARCH DESIGN FOR PEDAGOGICAL ENHANCEMENT OF RESEARCH METHODS COURSES .............................................. 769
Ben Kei Daniel, University of Otago, New Zealand

Visualization Methods about Code Modification of Card Game Strategies as Personal Progress Situation in an Applied C Programming Exercise with a Contest Style .................................................................................................................. 778
Naoki Hanakawa, Fumiya Gemba & Hiroyuki Tominaga, Kagawa University, Japan

Prototype of an E-learning System to Learn Motor Skills for a Traditional Japanese Wood-Processing ........................................................... 788
Shota Itagaki, Graduate School of Information Sciences, Tohoku University, Japan; Akinobu Ando, Miyagi University of Education, Japan; Ryota Fukutani & Tatsuya Horita, Graduate School of Information Sciences, Tohoku University, Japan

A Study on Inconscient Learning Behaviors and Psychological Evaluations Using Biological Data for an Image-Based Vocabulary Building Application ....................... 798
Ryohei Konishi, Ryosuke Shimmura, Ken Nakajima & Ryoya Hayashi, Dept. of Electrical Engineering, Kobe City College of Technology, Japan; Tetsuya Sato, Dept of Electrical Engineering, Kobe City College of Technology, Japan

Work integrated E-Learning in technical work using the example of textile production in Germany ......................................................................................... 804
Mario Löhrer & Thomas Gries, Institut für Textiltechnik der RWTH Aachen University, Germany

An E-Portfolio System for Teacher Promotion Courses: Cultivating Student Teachers’ Problem-Solving Abilities Through Extracurricular Studies ......................... 809
Toshiki Matsuda, Tokyo Institute of Technology, Japan

Development of an Analyzing System for Student’s Learning Characteristics by Visualization of Learning History ................................................................. 818
Takeshi Morishita, Takashi Yokoyama & Masaaki Niimura, Shinshu University, Japan; Hisayoshi Kunimune, Chiba Institute of Technology, Japan; Yoshinori Higashibara, Shinshu University, Japan
Supporting nomadic work- and study practices in groupware design ......................... 822
Stefan Nilsson, University West, Department of media and design, Sweden; Lars Svensson & William Jobe, University West, Sweden

The report on developing a prototype system of interactive multi-language stories for children and their preference of its interface ................................................................. 827
Toru Ochi, Osaka Institute of Technology, Japan; Minori Kurahasi, Osaka University, Japan; Masafumi Imai, Toyohashi Sozo University, Japan; Atsuko Kuramoto, Hiroshima International University, Japan

Supporting peer interactions in a MOOC: Utilizing social networking tools to personalize learning ................................................................. 833
Nathaniel Ostashewski & Jon Dron, Athabasca University, Canada; Jennifer Howell, Curtin University, Australia

Expanding the Mobile Compatibility of the Online Interactive Learning Tool .................................................................................................................. 846
Taeyeol Park, Georgetown University Medical Center, United States

Development of a Versatile Experimental Platform for English Vocabulary Learning Based on Extended Biometric Information Analyses .................................................. 850
Ryosuke Shimmura, Ryohei Konishi, Ken Nakajima, Ryoya Hayashi & Tetsuya Sato, Dept. of Electrical Engineering, Kobe City College of Technology, Japan

Combining Network Visualizations of Online Interactions and Real-world Collaborations in a Learning Community for Effective Interventions ......................... 856
Takahiro Tagawa, Kyushu University, Japan; Osamu Yamakawa, Fukui prefectural University, Japan; Koichi Yasutake & Takahiro Sumiya, Hiroshima University, Japan; Hitoshi Inoue, College of Healthcare Management, Japan

PjBL Management System based on Moodle in collaboration with RedMine .............................................................................................................................. 862
Yoshio Yamagishi, Keiko Kawai & Yukie Hara, Kanazawa Institute of Technology, Japan

Linked List Visualizer Tutor: Visualizing the Effects of C++ Statements with a Tutor that Watches Every Move ................................................................. 866
Rika Yoshii & Mihir Kale, California State University San Marcos, United States

"Who is Playing, And/or Who is Being Played?" Teaching in A Culture of Entitlement and Technology Integration ................................................................. 872
Elaine Correa, California State University, Bakersfield, United States

Digital Media Skills That Make Online Learners Thrive and Succeed ....................... 876
Myrene Magabo, University of the Philippines and University of Phoenix, United States; Faye Watson, John Garot & Kim Capeheart, University of Phoenix, United States
#SaudiMoves: How Saudi EFL Learners Exchange Intercultural Microblogs on Twitter ................................................................................................................................. 898
Khansa AL-Qudaimi, Al-Imam Mohammad Ibn Saud Islamic University, Saudi Arabia

Students with Disabilities: Mobile Device Ownership, Usage, and Perspectives ............................................................................................................................................... 905
Linda Chmiliar & Carrie Anton, Athabasca University, Canada

An Analysis of Expectations for Artificial Intelligence-supporting Software in Mobile Learning ............................................................................................................................. 918
Satoru Fujitani & Kohei Minemura, Mejiro University, Japan

Using Mobile Technology to Support Physician and Student Learning as Part of Patient Care ..................................................................................................................................... 923
Janette Hill, University of Georgia, United States; Michelle Nuss, AU/UGA Medical Partnership, United States; Ron Cervero, Uniformed Services University, United States; Julie Gaines, AU/UGA Medical Partnership, United States; Bruce Middendorf, St Mary's Hospital, United States; Supriya Mishra, University of Georgia, United States

User Centred e-learning, opportunities and challenges: a literature review ........................................ 933
Sonica Katoch, Vivian Doan & Nastaran Dadashi, George Brown College, Canada

Building Online Success at a Midwestern University: Identifying Students' Perceptions of Online Courses and Instructors .......................................................................................................................... 943
Lisa Madsen, Mary Bowne, Jessica Meendering, Melissa Wuellner & John Howard, South Dakota State University, United States

Developing a Just-in-Time Adaptive Mobile Platform for Family Medicine Education: Experiential Lessons Learned ....................................................................................................................................... 948
Christian Rogers, Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis (IUPUI), United States; Shannon Cooper & Scott Renshaw, Indiana University School of Medicine, United States; Jerry Schnepp, Bowling Green State University, United States; Corinne Renguette, Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis, United States; Mary Theresa Seig, Ball State University, United States

Spaced Repetition in Mobile Learning Games - A Cure to Bulimic Learning? .......................................................................................................................................................... 955
Florian Schimanke & Robert Mertens, HSW - University of Applied Sciences, Germany; Ute Schmid, University of Bamberg, Germany

Limitations of Mobile Learning: A Systematic Review ........................................................................ 965
Samoeken Sophonhiranrak & Sarunwit Promsaka Na Sakonnak, Faculty of Learning Sciences and Education, Thammasat University, Thailand
Mobile Learning and E-Learning —Making It Authentic, Interactive and a Productive Language Learning Resource ................................................................. 972
Xiaorui Sun, Inner Mongolia Normal University, China; Ohio University, U.S.A, China

“Virtual Visits”: Promising practices and lessons learned in the use of video teaching samples for online professional development .......................................................................................... 978
Chery Lucarelli, Jennifer Rosato & Cassandra Beckworth, The College of St. Scholastica, United States

Towards the Design of a Digital Fluency Course – An Exploratory Study .......... 1017
Sharon Bratt & Liam Hodgins, Grant Macewan University, Canada

Teaching and Learning with Wearable Technologies ................................................. 1057
Bård Ketil Engen, Tonje Hilde Giæver & Louise Mifsud, Oslo and Akerhus University College, Norway

Formalytics as Real-Time Feedback and Feedforward for Sustainable Lifelong Learning Pathways ........................................................................................................................ 1104
Madhumita Bhattacharya, New Paradigm Solutions Limited, New Zealand; Steven Coombs, Hamdan Bin Mohammed Smart University, United Arab Emirates

Improving the Fundamental ICT Knowledge Survey for First-year University Students and the Results of Five Years in a Japanese University ............................................. 1117
Daisuke Kaneko, School of Economics, Hokusei Gakuen University, Japan

Using BlackBoard Learn Analytics to Understand Collaboration and Engagement within the Non-Majors Biology Online Learning Environment ............................................. 1659
Mary Jo Parker, University of Houston-Downtown, United States

What are the Unique Characteristics of Integrating Mobile Applications in Learning? ................................................................................................................................. 1666
Yuval Shafriri, Tel Aviv University, Israel; Dalit Levy, Zefat Academic College, Israel

Exploring Data Visualization as an Emerging Analytic Technique ......................... 1681
Min Liu, University of Texas at Austin, United States; Jina Kang, Pan Zilong, Wenting Zou & Hye Yeon Lee, Univ. of Texas at Austin, United States

Collaborative Writing through iPad Sharing ............................................................. 1691
Bård Ketil Engen, Tonje Hilde Giæver & Louise Mifsud, Oslo and Akerhus University College, Norway

Designing Four Point Student Interaction in Online Trades Based Courses ................................................................. 1706
Dalton Mervold, Saskatchewan Polytechnic, Canada
Learning With Mobile Devices: An Overview ............................................................... 1709
Christopher Devers, Indiana Wesleyan University, United States; Stefanie Panke, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, United States

In the Webs of Mobile Tech: Depicting Cultural Differences Using Google Search Results, Media Discourses and Wikipedia Terms .......................................................... 1718
Stefanie Panke, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, United States

Burning the Candle: A Technology Immune Technology Enabled Problem within an Action on Objects Framework ................................................................. 1724
Michael Connell, University of Houston-Downtown, United States; Sergei Abramovich, State University of New York at Potsdam, United States

A Discussion on an ID Framework for Production, Inclusion, and Assessment of AR/VR Artifacts for Online Learning ................................................................. 1731
Jonathan Gratch, University of West Georgia, United States; Pamela Ponners, Texas Region 10 Educational Service Center, United States; Jian Zhang, Texas Woman’s University, United States; Adriana D'Alba, University Of West Georgia, United States