

Identifying and Training Faculty for Hybrid Courses

Abstract: Saint Leo University uses a One Day WebCT online training course, integrated with a team of facilitators to introduce current faculty to the Hybrid/Blended concept.

The One Day training is a combination of an actual WebCT online course and a question/answer seminar with facilitators. The faculty is given a brief introduction to the various online tools available in a hybrid course. Upon completion the Faculty would be enrolled in the comprehensive Faculty training Course, to actually develop the hybrid course.

SLU has found this overview approach a good way to introduce traditional faculty to the online hybrid/blended courses, and how the format can enhance the classroom.

This presentation is a Poster Session describing how the training is arranged and coordinated, along with the WebCT tools available.

As a Poster Session, it should be interesting to any educator, especially those in a position to identify potential faculty for both hybrid and online courses.
