AACE Conference Best Practice Proposal

The Online/Offline Classroom: Effectively Providing Remote Real-time Access To Course Sessions

In this session we'll experience how instructors can effectively provide students the option of being physically in the classroom or attending remotely in real time. We'll review the advantages of such a classroom environment, as well as the pitfalls, based on two years of actual utilization of such a system. By the end of this session attendees will have an understanding of how to manage the process without affecting the learning experience. They'll be familiar with the basic operation and essential capabilities of software that has made this possible, as well as how this type of hybrid course can meet the needs of students seeking an online education while also supporting a traditional offline environment as well.
